

Thursday Assignment

For today's assignment, develop a signature file to add to your emails. If your book doesn't have a web presence yet, you can build a starter sig file that you can add to once the book is on the web.

Initially, the sig file should have a link to your website or blog (if you have one). It can also have links to site with a short story or an article you published.

Once you have the sig file, don't forget to use it when you send out an email.
